

Module: XXX Master Colloquium Prof. Hoisl
Contents: The Master-Colloquium allows students to present the outline and specific topics of their thesis and to discuss the contents with other master students and members of the chair. The aim is to support the thesis development process and to identify possible issues at an early stage.
Learning outcomes: By the end of the module students developed • academic presentation skills, • strengthening of critical thinking with respect to scholarly work, • knowledge of important challenges within the research process.
Prerequisites: Formal: Module MAN 721 & Acceptance to write master thesis at the chair of organization and innovation (after application) Recommended: Profound knowledge of organizational and innovation topics Interest in scientific research Knowledge of statistical and econometric techniques
Obligatory registration: [yes]	Further Information on registration: [Website of the Chair / “Student Portal”]
Courses	Hours per week	Self-study
Colloquium	2	-
Exercise Class	2	--
ECTS in total		--
Form of assessment	--
Preliminary course work
Lecturer/Person in charge	[Prof. Dr. Karin Hoisl]
Duration of module	[1 semester]
Offering	[Spring semester / Fall semester]
Language	[English]
Program-specific educational goals	[LG 1, LG 2, LG 5]
Grade	[not graded]
Range of application	[M.Sc. MMM, M.Sc. MMBR, M.Sc. Bus. Edu.]	