

Junior UX/UI Designer

At the N3XTCODER Impact Studio our mission is to enable tech-driven, social impact founders to build successful, scalable, and socially responsible businesses. In developing our projects, we are guided by the 17 Sustainable Development Goals defined by the United Nations. We are looking to hire a Junior UX/UI Designer to support us on this path.

You don't need to have all skills yet, but what you need is talent, an aesthetic feeling, passion for design and a fresh mind to focus on how breakthrough technologies can tackle and solve exceptionally fast growing social problems globally.

You will be tasked with the design of landing pages, websites, apps, user journeys and different kind of online marketing material. For this you will be trained and work alongside proven experts in a positive and inclusive work environment!

Several configurations are possible, talk to us if you are interested in a (paid) internship or work/study deal, in addition to a perspective for fixed employment, part time or full time.

Required skills:

- InDesign
- creative and excited about website and app design
- cloud-based communication and management tools (docs, drive, slack...)
- communication skills in English is a plus
- You must be available to work onsite in Berlin minimum 2 days per week!

Bonus skills:

- Sketch
- Invision

You're a good fit if you:

- love to be learning and experimenting with new technologies
- prefer challenge over comfort zone and routine
- enjoy taking the initiative and figuring out solutions on your own
- are a mindful colleague, driven by desire for learning and change, not ego

What do you gain during your time with us?

- paid learning experience
- be part of exciting & meaningful projects with social impact
- collect hands-on experiences across a range of tasks
- breathe real startup air free from tech-broism and quick exit mentality
- grow into a network of players who want to use digital technology to create social impact
